FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

The Office of Financial Assistance is a professional, three-person team committed to providing students with financial aid resources to meet the educational costs of attending the School of Law. Our staff is available to assist students with all financial aid processes including application procedures, resource comparison, and the utilization of funds. In accomplishing such, the School of Law provides more than eighty-six percent of its student body with some form of financial aid.

The Office of Financial Assistance implements an ethical approach of administering financial aid and maintains integrity as stewards of the federal financial aid programs. The goal of our office is to provide equity and consistency in the delivery of financial aid funds. Our guidelines model the Federal Student Aid Handbook and all staff is reliably kept abreast of federal and institutional regulations, policies, and procedures.

Throughout the academic year, the Office of Financial Assistance provides informational workshops as well as brochures on several topics specific to student borrowers. Some of which include entrance and exit counseling, financial planning, and loan consolidation. We encourage all students to take advantage of these valuable sessions.

Our objective is to make each student's financial aid experience a positive one. We look forward to being an integral part of your educational experience at the School of Law.

Pepperdine University shifts to the Federal Direct Lending Program

As of Fall 2010, Pepperdine University processes Stafford and Graduate PLUS loans through the Federal Direct Loan Program. All students are required to complete and sign new Master Promissory Notes (MPN). Students will be able to complete the new MPN online. More information will follow over the next few months, please refer to your "To Do List" and your Pepperdine email.

Financial Need/Award Processing

Determining Financial Need

Financial need is determined based upon the information provided on the FAFSA and need analysis. The need analysis formula is termed Federal Methodology (FM) and is applied as set forth by the Department of Education. Federal Methodology was passed into Congress under the Reauthorization of the Higher Education Act of 1965 as amended by the Higher Education Amendments of 1992.

Expected Family Contribution

The Expected Family Contribution (EFC) is the amount that the student is expected to contribute towards their educational costs. The EFC is federally regulated and is established by the income, asset and household information provided on the FAFSA. All graduate and professional school students are considered independent for financial aid need analysis purposes. Therefore, you are not required to report parental information on the FAFSA.

The Office of Financial Assistance is a professional, three-person team committed to providing financial aid resources to meet the educational cost of Pepperdine University. Our staff is available to assist students with all aspects of the financial aid process, including application procedures, request for information, and the disbursement of funds. In accomplishing this mission, we have provided more than eighty-six percent of its students with financial aid.

The Office of Financial Assistance maintains an ethical approach of administering financial aid programs with integrity as stewards of the federal financial aid programs. The goal of our office is to provide equity and consistency in the delivery of financial aid funds. Our guidelines model the Federal Student Aid Handbook and all staff is reliably kept abreast of federal and institutional regulations, policies, and procedures.

Throughout the academic year, the Office of Financial Assistance provides informational workshops as well as brochures on several topics specific to student borrowers. Some of which include entrance and exit counseling, financial planning, and loan consolidation. We encourage all students to take advantage of these valuable sessions.

Our objective is to make each student's financial aid experience a positive one. We look forward to being an integral part of your educational experience at the School of Law.

Pepperdine University shifts to the Federal Direct Lending Program

As of Fall 2010, Pepperdine University processes Stafford and Graduate PLUS loans through the Federal Direct Loan Program. All students are required to complete and sign new Master Promissory Notes (MPN). Students will be able to complete the new MPN online. More information will follow over the next few months, please refer to your "To Do List" and your Pepperdine email.
